

HCRCC - AT THE FLYING FIELD NOVEMBER

Tuesday, November 3 was a picture perfect day for the Geezer Patrol. Vic had brought his personal mower out and in addition to fertilizing and aerating the pilot's areas, he also manicured the grass runway and the taxi areas. It was great! The weather is supposed to hold for the next few days so come on out! JRM

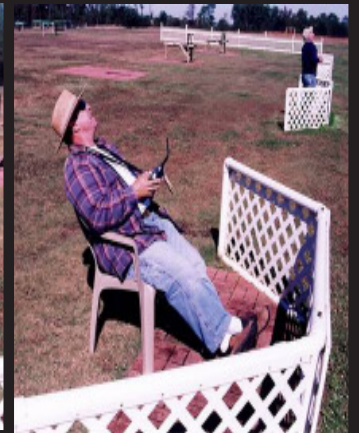

Murph's 1/3 scale Cub is getting the nick-name of "Smoky Joe" and is seen here doing it's thing. A Zenoah 45 powers the Cub and a Sullivan smoke system provides the trail.

War Birds are always in style and Vic's P-51 and Joe Brett's Spitfire are no exception. Both put on a good show recently at the field and reminded us of WWII and the contribution each plane made in the war effort.

It appears that Rousseau is getting all the work and no fun as he provides a reliable launch for these sailplane pilots.

Now everyone knows that piloting these sailplanes takes a high level of concentration. Vic and Gene Crow show just how tough it really is to keep them flying in top form.

Probably not historical, but Jim Brooks and his clipped wing Cub is a classic picture of a love affair.

Another classic is Mike Lashley's pic of Joe Ryan's departure of Murph' Stearman on first flight.
